Report

Resource Person : Ms. Uthra V

Target Audience : III Year. IT

Venue : Video Hall

Date & Time : 26.03.2019, 10.00 AM

On 26th March 2019, Ms. Uthra V, Analyst, E & Y (Alumnus, 2017 passed out) delivered a Guest Lecture on "Role of Security in Cloud Computing".

The lecture started with a prayer song sung by Kaaviya Baskaran, Executive Member AIT. Following that the welcome address was given by Bhavani.S, Treasurer AIT. The profile of the chief guest was shortly given by Ms. Kiruthika Devi, AP/IT. This was followed by an introductory note by Dr.V.Vidhya, Head-In-Charge Department of Information Technology.

The chief guest Ms. Uthra started by interacting with the audience on the introduction of the cloud. Next the students were carried through the objectives of cloud based on its features. She then spoke about the various cloud models available, particularly the delivery models. Following this she gave a brief introduction on the structures of data like IaaS, PaaS, SaaS and the services which equip these structures on their platform. She then highlighted upon certain significant loopholes in cloud computing.

She explained how the resources are concatenated in cloud and then spoke about the major problems in cloud computing like loss of control, lack of trust, fear taxonomy etc.

Before the conclusion of the event, there was a Q&A session where she answered numerous questions raised spontaneously by the students. The event ended with the vote of thanks given by Shravan Srinivasan, executive member AIT. Post the guest lecture, students also approached the speaker to get personalized tips on how to take up and advance projects in the domain of cloud computing.

Total no. of Participants: 65 Students (III year A&B + 4 faculty)

Outcome of the Program

- Industry input for the forth coming 7 th semester subject (IT16704-Cloud Computing)
- To face upcoming placement interviews.
- Useful for faculties registered in AWS-cloud practitioner certificate course.
